

The Sears Business Centre is about to increase the number of serviced offices it has in Sittingbourne as the growth planned for this summer is brought forward to accommodate requests for serviced offices and serviced desks.

"Demand has been rising steadily since our opening last July" said Neville Sears "We have been very encouraged by the level of interest as well as the commitment by our clients and have therefore brought forward our expansion plans to meet demand"

"We have two clients who have already made a commitment "off plan" for offices on the second floor, an existing local business and a company expanding into the area. People seem to like what we have to offer; from the quality of our facility and inclusive pricing to the knowledge that they have the freedom and flexibility of only needing to commit for one month at a time"

The second floor of the Sears Business Centre will provide five additional serviced offices together with three single person "office pods" which provide an excellent and cost effective business environment for anyone who does not want or need a private office. In addition there will be a large meeting and training room together with breakout and relaxation space.

Work has commenced and will be completed by the end of February ready to receive our new clients and to show any businesses or individuals looking for an attractive, supportive and dynamic place for their business to grow.
